NEOON

MONTHLY REPORT

April 2026

During April, Meta distribution was adjusted from a 60% Instagram / 40% Facebook split to a more balanced 50% / 50% approach. The previous transition from 70% / 30% to 60% / 40% had delivered strong results, so this new adjustment was tested to further leverage Facebook's growing traffic contribution while maintaining Instagram's organic strength.

Overall Summary

The reporting period delivered a strong overall digital performance, with visibility and traffic remaining solid across the main channels.

Instagram continued to drive organic discovery and high-intent traffic, while Facebook delivered another strong month with broad reach and strong support for traffic generation. Meta Ads remained efficient after the 50/50 platform split, with improved CPC and CTR versus March.

Website traffic stayed healthy, but commercial results softened compared with previous months. The same core strategies were kept in place, and even with new conversion-oriented videos in ads, sales still declined. April appears to have been a softer commercial month, despite stable traffic and improved paid media efficiency. The next step is to understand whether this was a temporary demand fluctuation or a conversion issue that requires further creative and website optimization.

Next Steps

- Continue producing content focused on converting karaoke bookings.
- Analyze the merch launch so we can start it properly.
- Keep promoting the idea that Neoon brings multiple experiences together in one space, since that is one of the main strengths of the venue.
- Continue testing and refreshing conversion-focused creatives, especially for karaoke and bookings.
